Section A) Master's degree thesis

Section B) Research doctorate

Section C) Italian journalistic article – informative

Section D) Foreign journalistic article – informative

The Consorzio Tutela Vini Collio [Consortium For The Protection of Wines from Collio], in collaboration with the University of Udine, MIB School of Management, and the ARGA Friuli Venezia Giulia, in memory of Count Sigismondo Douglas Attems of Petzenstein, has instituted a competition for the conferral of four awards. The competition aims to reward activities that have made a valuable contribution, on a scientific level, applicative and informative, in the sectors of viticulture, oenology, and the enhancement of the territory of the Collio.

It is divided into four sections:

Section A) Best master's degree thesis, amount of the Prize € 750.00

Section B) Best research doctorate, amount of the Prize € 1.000.00

Section C) Best journalistic article - informative € 1.000.00

Section D) Best foreign journalistic article – informative € 1.000,00

To the competition are admitted:

for Section A :

The students of European Universities who have presented their degree thesis during the period 31/03/2018 - 31/03/2019. They can present their thesis from Master's degree course. It would be an asset in the evaluation if projects treat topics related to research on viticulture, oenology, grape varieties, or white wines, with specific reference to the hill areas of Friuli Venezia Giulia or, even better, to the Collio denomination, as well as issues related to the enhancement of the territory.

The text of the thesis, which can be written in Italian, English, or French, must be accompanied by a brief summary in English or Italian. The work of the candidates, accompanied by a Curriculum Vitae, must be sent by 30/04/2019 by digital copy to segreteria@collio.it. A paper copy must be sent by post to CONSORZIO TUTELA VINI COLLIO, Via Gramsci 2, 34071 CORMONS (GO), Italy.

for Section B:

PhD graduates of European Universities who have presented their doctoral thesis (PhD) during the period 31/03/2018 - 31/03/2019. In particular, papers which constitute a concrete advancement of knowledge in the areas of viticulture and oenology also substantiated by publications in scientific journals will be positively evaluated. The treatment of topics relating to research on grape varieties, or white wines, with specific reference to the hill areas of Friuli Venezia Giulia or, even better, to the DOC Collio, as well as issues related to the enhancement of the territory, would have an advantage. The text of the thesis, which can be written in Italian, English, or French, must be accompanied by a brief summary in English or Italian. The work of the candidates, accompanied by a Curriculum Vitae, must be sent by 30/04/2019 by digital copy to segreteria@collio.it. A paper copy must be sent by post to CONSORZIO TUTELA VINI COLLIO, Via Gramsci 2, 34071 CORMONS (GO), Italy.

for Section C: Italian journalists who have produced an informative article for the printed media, radio and television services, the Web, or a publication, in Italy, during the last calendar year (March 2018 - March 2019), about the topics specified as follows: varieties and white wines, their promotion and communication, as well as issues related to the enhancement of the vineyards of the territory, with specific reference and attention to the hill areas of Friuli Venezia Giulia, and especially the Collio Denomination. The articles, film contributions, or journalistic web productions, must be sent by 30/04/2019 to argafvg@email.it and in copy to segreteria@collio.it.

for Section D: Foreign journalists who have produced an informative article for the printed media, radio and television services, the Web, or a publication, during the last calendar year (March 2018 - March 2019), about the topics specified as follows: varieties and white wines, their promotion and communication, as well as issues related to the enhancement of the vineyards of the territory, with specific reference and attention to the hill areas of Friuli Venezia Giulia, and especially the Collio Denomination. We will assess entries in English, Slovenian, German, French and in other European or Asiatic languages accompanied by a brief summary in English. The articles, film contributions, or journalistic web productions, must be sent by 30/04/2019 to argafvg@email.it and in copy to segreteria@collio.it.

The Selection Board is composed of: the President of the Bachelor Degree Course in Viticulture and Oenology and the President of the Master Degree Course in Viticulture, Oenology and Wine Marketing of the University of Udine; the Academic Director of Wine Business studies of the MIB School of Management of Trieste; the President of the Regional Association of Journalists for Agriculture, Agri-Food, Environment and the Territory of Friuli Venezia Giulia; and the President of the Consorzio Tutela Vini Collio, or a representative of the Consortium expressly delegated by resolution of the Council.

The Selection Board reserves the right to assess works relating to the subjects outlined by this competition, whether or not they have been directly submitted by the author.

The winners will be informed of the conferral of an award by the Consorzio Tutela Vini Collio di Cormons (GO). Prizes will be awarded during a ceremony to be held in 31/05/2019 at the Consortium, or at another location chosen by them.
